

AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRY & DEFENCE NETWORK INC.

AIDN - Maximising Defence and Security related business for Australian SMEs

THE AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRY & DEFENCE NETWORK (AIDN) is a national peak body that supports SME suppliers to Defence and Security related customers via advocacy, trusted partnerships, representation and member services.

AIDN aims to maximise defence and security related business for Australian SMEs by:

- identifying and developing opportunities for SMEs to take part in Australian defence business opportunities and global supply chains
- providing advocacy services for its membership to and from Defence, federal and state government and industry, and representation on government industry forums in the Defence sector
- developing the skills base of its membership, including through initiatives which utilise government assistance
- providing regular communication on the latest news, opportunities, events and discounts for members

- contributing to workforce planning and linking industry with federal and state/territory government programs in skills training, innovation, technology and asset development, specialisation, and export readiness
- supporting and participating in domestic and international conferences, seminars and trade shows to showcase member capabilities
