SUPPLY OF UNIT HOVERCRAFT

1381723 JUN

- Request for Tender - Defence Support and Reform Group

The Joint Proof and Experimental Unit – JPEU – at the Port Wakefield Range would like to procure a Unit Hovercraft (UHC). The current UHC vessel, a Hornet MX-S 400 hovercraft, has reached the end of the capability life cycle after multiple modifications and life of type extensions. This hovercraft was first introduced into service in approximately 1988 with an original life of type of 15 years. This hovercraft is no longer able to provide a capability to safely support the full spectrum of JPEU trial requirements in support of certain ADF test and evaluation activities. The UHC vessel is a vital tool to support the regular EO testing at JPEU Port Wakefield. If this UHC vessel is unavailable due to unavailability of maintenance support or spare parts, this will cause severe interruption to the tight testing schedule at Port Wakefield.

RESONANCE CHARGER

20716 JUN

- Expression of Interest - Naval Group

The Program seeks to establish the Australian industrial capability necessary to support the build, operation and sustainment of the Future Submarine. This will involve maximising the involvement of Australian industry in all phases of the Program without compromising capability, cost, schedule or risk. Australia's Future Submarines will be built in Adelaide, Australia. The radiated noise signature of a submarine is a critical parameter of its operational performance, and therefore needs to be characterised. Such characterisation is performed using acoustic ranges to determine the far field radiated noise.

Naval Group is undertaking a study to determine the most effective combination of measurement tools, locations and methods to perform acoustic measurements of the Attack Class submarine in Australian waters. As part of this work, a survey of existing oceanographic data is first required to determine locations around Australia that may be suitable for radiated acoustic noise and target echo strength measurements. Naval Group Australia is therefore seeking the services of a subcontractor familiar with oceanographic data and acoustics to conduct an Ocean Environment Study (OES).
