ARMY INDIGENOUS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM & REGIONAL FORCE SURVEILLANCE UNIT EDUCATION AND DEVELOPMENT COURSE

7830

1 NOV

- Request for Tender - Defence Support and Reform Group (DSRG)

The Royal Military College of Australia (RMC-A) is seeking a Supplier to work with the staff of the Regional Force Surveillance Group (RFSG) to deliver two specialised programs that are aimed at increasing the representation of indigenous Australians in Army. "Indigenous", in this context, refers to persons of both Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent. Candidates for these programs are selected through a competitive identification and screening process demonstrating a strong sense of values, commitment and a desire to serve. This recruiting process targets candidates who do not possess the requisite education levels for 'general entry' into Army or the Regional Force Surveillance Unit, or at least the confidence in demonstrating them.

Army Indigenous Development Program

The Army Indigenous Development Program (AIDP) is a pathway program designed to provide an opportunity for Indigenous Australians to undertake a career within Army where they do not currently meet general enlistment standards for full-time or part-time service. The program will bridge education and health standards as well as reinforce the individual resilience necessary to commence the Army Recruit Course (ARC). As a result the program is to be delivered in an appropriate military environment in order to engender the requisite skills, knowledge and attitudes that will allow a successful transition to a military career.

Regional Force Surveillance Unit – Education and Development Course

The Regional Force Surveillance Unit – Education and Development Course (REDC) is a program sponsored by the Army which targets part-time members of the three RFSUs – The North West Mobile Force, The 51st Far North Queensland Regiment, and The Pilbara Regiment. It aims to improve the language, literacy and numeracy skills of candidates who might otherwise face challenges in successfully completing either induction training, or other promotion and career advancement courses.

The Supplier will be contracted to deliver the programs in a manner which provides sensitivity to Indigenous requirements, and also acknowledges development of the military ethos in the candidates.

The Supplier must be a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and able to maintain its RTO status during the performance of the contract.

Contract Commencement Date: Tuesday 1 January 2019 - first course March 2019. The contract will terminate on Friday 1 January 2021. Contract Extension Option: Two (2) 1-year extension options are available, to be exercised at Defence's discretion.

Industry Briefing: An Industry Briefing will be held at Berrimah Defence Establishment from 9:00 AM on Tuesday 9 October 2018. Tenderers must contact the Enquiries Officer by 4:00 PM on Friday 5 October 2018 if wishing to attend.
