ARMY INDIGENOUS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM EDUCATION AND PHYSICAL TRAINING

6935*24 SEP

- Request for Tender - Defence Support and Reform Group

The Army Recruit Training Centre (ARTC) is seeking a Supplier to work with the staff of the Recruit Development Wing (RDW) to deliver a specialised program that is aimed at improving the representation of Indigenous Australians in Army. "Indigenous", in this context, refers to persons of both Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander descent. The Army Indigenous Development Program (AIDP) is for selected applicants with a view to bridging education and health standards as well as reinforcing individual resilience necessary to commence the Army Recruit Course (ARC). As such the program is to be delivered in an appropriate military environment in order to engender the requisite skills, knowledge and attitudes that will allow a successful transition to a military career. Candidates for this program are selected through a competitive identification and screening process demonstrating a strong sense of values, commitment and a desire to serve. This recruiting process targets candidates who do not possess the requisite education levels for 'general entry' into Army, or at least the confidence in demonstrating them.

The Supplier will be contracted to deliver the educational and physical training components of the program in a culturally appropriate environment. "Culturally appropriate", in this context, includes sensitivity to Indigenous requirements but also the acknowledgement and development of the military ethos that Army staff will be concurrently working to develop in candidates. Over the course of the program it is expected that the candidates will have improved self-esteem, develop greater resilience and robust coping mechanisms to meet the challenges they will experience in military life. They will start to develop the qualities expected of soldiers noting Army's core values of Courage, Initiative, Respect and Teamwork.

In 2019 this program is scheduled for delivery commencing 22 January for a period of 17 weeks. The education and physical training components, to be delivered by the Supplier, will total 52 days (13 weeks x 4 days per week). Army's preferred cohort size is 40. At present there is volatility in the recruitment market that means numbers may fluctuate. In order to meet Defence's criteria for value for money, suppliers are requested to price according to a minimum panel of 20, then, in increments of 5 up to 40 participants.

The Supplier must be a Registered Training Organisation (RTO) and able to maintain its RTO status during the performance of the contract.

This Contract is expected to commence on 22 January 2019 and to end on Wednesday 22 January 2020. Three (3) further 12-month extension options are available and are to be exercised at Defence's discretion (with delivery of 2 programs targeted annually).

DEFENCE MARINE SUPPORT SERVICES PROGRAM

RFI_6814_NAVY_FCMD

15 OCT

- Expression of Interest - Defence Support and Reform Group

This Request for Information (RFI) is intended to inform a potential future procurement process. Participation in this RFI is NOT a pre-condition to participation in a future procurement process. Department of Defence is seeking Requests for Information (RFI) in relation to the Defence Marine Support Services (DMSS) Program.

This RFI relates to the provision of marine support to Defence (primarily Navy) and potentially other Commonwealth agencies. The intention of this RFI is to shape a possible future procurement, particularly in relation to market capacity and methods to deliver the required support.

The DMSS Program is a critical enabler to capability and involves a range of selective marine and port support services. As an initial focus, the DMSS Program will subsume the services currently provided to Navy under the Fleet Marine Services Contract (FMSC) and those currently delivered by the Mutti-Role Aviation Training Vessel (MATV).

The overall intention of the DMSS Program procurement is to create a flexible vehicle to enable other potential users (including other Government agencies) and their applicable projects to employ the DMSS Program contracts (where it makes sense to do so). Such opportunities may be considered in collaboration with Industry as part of the RFI. The aim of the DMSS program is to establish consistency in marine support services nationally, maximise and assure capability delivery and where possible, gain economies of scale to ensure value for money for Defence.

The objectives that Defence is seeking to satisfy through this RFI process are three-fold:

- to provide industry an opportunity to share ideas and think outside the square for a potential future procurement that satisfy the objectives of the DMSS Program;
- to consult industry in a cooperative and open environment where industry's view on a range of issues can be obtained, including how best to optimise and innovate the delivery of DMSS services; and
- to enable the Commonwealth to provide background information and context in relation to the DMSS Program in accordance with the Conditions of the RFI.

NOTE: Prospective respondents are to note that the RFI as released does not include all information in relation to this RFI. Respondents may only obtain the additional information after the execution of a 'Deed of Confidentiality'.
